

Locals enjoy a day of divine wine and chocolate

The month of April was a month of indulgence for residents at Lifestyle in Warragul.

All the residents teamed up to organise a wine and chocolate tasting afternoon in the village clubhouse in the lead up to Easter.

Wines from the Warragul and Drouin region were teamed with decadent chocolates.

Village manager Mavis had noted that many residents are away over the Easter break each year and thought that it would be fun if they could celebrate Easter a bit earlier together.

“Chocolate and wine are always popular treats, and we thought that it would be fun to host something a bit different – we’ve never done this type of thing before” said Mavis.

Even though all the residents enjoyed treating themselves, the village walking club has already scheduled the next walk to burn off the calories.

Colleen Thurley has lived in the village for just over a year and is thoroughly enjoying all the different activities and events on offer.

“It’s really quite social. Every time there’s some sort of public holiday or event, the village always gets together to do something to celebrate together.

Having the wine and chocolate tasting day was a lot of fun – I’m sure we’ll do it again next year”, Colleen said.

Lifestyle Communities Director Dael Perlov understands the importance of creating the kind of environment the residents enjoy.

The residents at the Warragul village have really embraced retirement, they’re often organising different events or activities and enjoy their new leisurely way of life”, Dale said.

Lifestyle Warragul is set in the rolling hills of Gippsland and just four minutes from the Warragul town centre, 134 Warragul-Lardner Road, Warragul.
